Lloyd:

Appreciate the invitation to the AIA dinner.
It is unfortunate that I will be in Chicago that day and unable to attend. Please keep me on the mailing list, however, because I do enjoy the opportunity to meet with such groups.

Trust business is going well with you and the future of 1983 holds good things.

Best to Ginny.

Warm regards,

John N. McMahon

Dear Mr. McMahon,

The AIA Aerospace Technical Council cordially invites you to its Annual Dinner on the evening of April 13, 1983, at The Madison Hotel in Washington, D.C.

An evening with government guests has become a traditional part of our Spring meeting. Its purpose is to allow us to become better acquainted and to improve the effectiveness of our communications. There will be no formal speeches or presentations and all conversations will be off-the-record. We have also invited senior officials from other agencies concerned with aerospace matters.

The Council is made up of one corporate member from each AIA company and acts as the aerospace industry's senior technical advisory body. It is responsible for seeking solutions to broad management problems of mutual concern to government and industry. It operates through formal committees and direct personal liaison with our counterparts in government.

We hope you will find it possible to join us for this occasion. The affair is without spouses and business dress is appropriate. Cocktails will begin at 6:00 P.M. in the Monticello Room with dinner following at 7:00 P.M. in the Dolley Madison Room. We would appreciate confirmation at your earliest convenience. Please call Ron Lowry at 429-4685.

Cordially,

L. K. Lauderdale, Chairman,
AIA Aerospace Technical Council, and
Vice President, R&E, E-Systems, Inc.

Mr. John N. McMahon
Deputy Director, Central Intelligence
